

Students attend different activities at the fest.

Eventful fest concludes

HT Correspondent

■ htraj@hindustantimes.com

The two-day fest was somewhat unusual for the students of Banasthali University, situated on the outskirts of the city. It was the celebration of Navotakarsh, a fest organised by WISDOM (Department of management).

The sponsors of the fest were Stayfree Secure and Hindustan Times.

On the inaugural day, the students witnessed mind-boggling activities such as inquisitive, corporate-rodies, bussiness-bazigar, arthapragya and Innovid.

The students enjoyed the fest with great zeal and enthusiasm.

The spotlight of these events was on the water conservation, green India and on the teachings of Mahatma Gandhi. Besides these activities, students also got the opportunity to show their managerial skills, where they had to sell their products to people different stalls.

Students at their stall.

Then the brain storming sessions were devoted for cultural events and prize distribution. Here, too, the students showed their hidden talent. JIMS (Jaipur) students also participated in the fest. They were quite happy with the hospitality. They thoroughly enjoyed this event.

Dean WISDOM Prof. Siddhrtha Shastri appreciated and encouraged all the students by saying that the programme was a real reflection of their capabilities and talents. All the teachers from the WISDOM and other faculties were overwhelmed by their performances. The winners in different events were Ekta Sharma (inquisitive), JIMS (corporate rodies), Komal Gupt, Apoorva, Roshni, Nityasha (business Bazigar), Jyoti Makhija (paper presentation), Garima Goyal and Neha Singh (arthapragya), Neha, Jyoti, Unnati and Suman (innovid documentary), Shivani (quiz), Shweta (roleplay), Deepika jain (symposium), Pragati parihar (case study).